Cancer Drive This Monday

Captains have been named and workers found for the American Cancer Society's "Crusade" in Carmel and Carmel Valley.

The local drive will be a one evening, two hour drive. On Monday, April 29, from 6 p. m. to 8 p. m. neighborhood volunteer workers will be around, ringing your doorbell, to urge you to fight cancer with a checkup and a check.

Carmel Valley workers are:

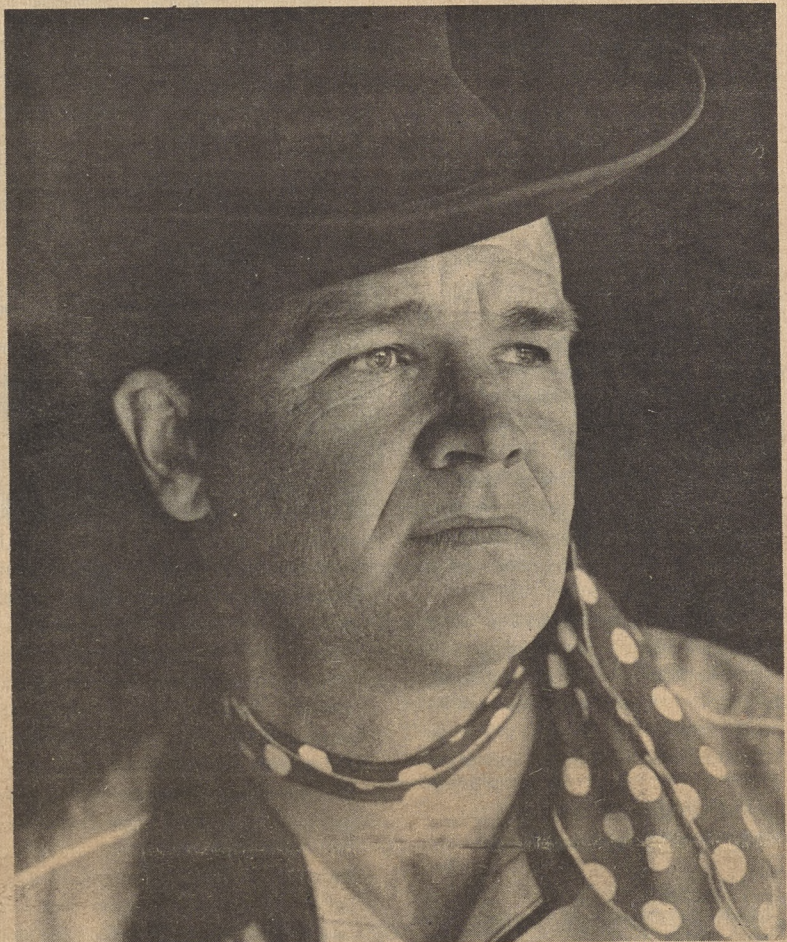

(Upper Valley): Miss Bessie Irvin, chairman; Mesdames Edwin B. Riddell, M. L. Blevens, W. H. Walker, Irving E. Ollason, and Raymond Danielson, captains.

(Lower Valley): Mrs. Owen G. Patrick, chairman; Mrs. John D. Otter, Mr. Terry Wilkinson, Mrs. Marie Frumkin, Mrs. Edgar C. Leslie, Owen G. Patrick, and Stanley Ewig, captains.

Mrs. Betty Antoncich is chairman of business, assisted by Bob Schott.

(Below)

Carmel Valley chairmen for the American Cancer Society's drive are shown chatting with Actor William Gargan, who as vice-chairman of the Cancer Crusade in California this year is active in raising funds for the organization which helped him regain his voice. Gargan, who starred in the "Martin Kane - Private Eye" series, as well as many stage and movie roles, lost his natural voice more than two years ago due to cancer of the larynx. Now he devotes much time to encouraging other laryngectomy patients to learn to speak by alternate methods, as he and many others have. Below, at the kickoff luncheon held last week at the Mark Thomas Inn, Gargan (second from left) is shown with Stanley Ewig of Carmel and Bessie Irwin, Betty Antoncich, and Mona Patrick, all of Carmel Valley.

BOB ROBINSON MEMORIAL FUND TO FINANCE OUTDOOR CLASSROOM

by Dorothy Reed

A classroom out of doors, with the sky for its ceiling and the mountains as decor, is being proposed for Tularcitos School as the result of community affection for a tall, gentle man who loved the Valley, especially its flowers and its children.

"Big Bob" Robinson, founder and manager of five annual wildflower festivals held here, died without warning in 1959, and his admirers throughout the Peninsula and from much farther away, established a fund in his memory. Every Valley organization pitched in, and contributions came to $1000.

Intended originally for landscaping the Community Center grounds, the money was set aside under the trusteeship of Mrs. Robinson because of the well-known wish to put a swimming pool on these grounds first. With the pool's prospects still hazy, however, the Community Center Board voted unanimously at its recent annual meeting to release the fund for current use in building the outdoor classroom at Tularcitos. Lois Robinson heads the committee to accomplish this project.

A leading authority on wildflowers of California, Bob put together the first wildflower festival in the spirit of a dare, answering a challenge to prove that there were actually a hundred different wildflowers in the Valley. The estimate turned out to be an understatement, for the show contained four times that many.

Bob was building up a mail order business in wildflower seeds under the name of Clyde Robin, and hoped some day to leave his job in hotel management and devote his full time to botany. His one-man flower show snowballed, gathering community participation so that the final festival was a huge event.

A 15-page brochure featuring Dennis the Menace listed more than a thousand wildflowers on display and attracted botany classes and garden clubs from many parts of the state, as well as several thousand individual visitors.

United Airlines' publication "Mainliner" gave its double-page center spread to colored photographs of the flowers and the Valley by George T. C.

Smith.

A sheet headed "Instructions to Cashier" found among the mementos of that day documents the involvement of Bob Robinson in every aspect of the show. Each instruction winds up, "Call Bob." "Ask Bob." "Contact Bob."

When the Robinsons' son Chris, now 12, was a kindergartner at Tularcitos, his father gave a talk on plants to his classmates. Lois has a sheaf of thank-you drawings testifying to the rapport between her husband and the youngsters. Because of his special feeling for children, she believes that the proposed addition to the school will make an especially appropriate memorial.

Plans for the outdoor classroom, an educational innovation which has aroused enthusiasm in southern California, will be submitted to the Board of Education for its acceptance in the near future. Colorful baffles will screen off the playground distractions, and one section will be roofed for shade. Moveable benches, a blackboard on wheels, and planters and display cases for science projects, will equip the room for the use of any grade in any subject.

Planning Commission Agenda For April 30

Valley and Carmel items on the agenda for the County Planning Commission Tuesday, April 30 are as follows:

4:40 p. m. Jack Cowan (in a continued hearing) seeks rezoning of his property on Esquiline Rd. on which the White Oaks Theatre group proposes to build a musical theatre, with school and craft shops in connection. According to Ernest Franco, planning technician for the county, such use is not permissible to the property under the present R3DB4 zoning, even with a use permit.

PEOPLE, DOGS, GUNS, PROBLEMS

Dogs allowed to run loose in the Valley, coupled with the killing of a pet lamb two weeks ago by such marauders, form the basis of a still hot local issue. We will leave the question of what is "right" or "wrong" for dog owners to Mrs. Combs and discuss only the legal aspects of marauding dogs:

Several Valley residents appealed to Mrs. James May, who was recently appointed a state humane officer, for aid in solution of the continuing problem. Known for her kind heart and public spirit, Mrs. May agreed to investigate even though this type of incident is probably not within the formal scope of her new official duties.

Early this Monday, Mrs. May had a long conference with Assistant District Attorney Tom Moore. The legal implications brought to light suggest a problem more complex than at first appears.

The Blevens family, sitting at their breakfast table, witnessed the two German Shepherds enter their yard and leap upon the tethered lamb. Although Mr. Blevens immediately ran outside in an attempt to save the lamb, he was already too late. Legally, he could have shot the dogs. Legally, however, he would have been liable for any damage that might have been inflicted by a straying bullet. Legal rights seem immaterial, at any rate, to these peaceful people who do not think in terms of using firearms in their neighborhood, which is a built-up residential area rather than a rural one. They could prefer charges against their neighbors, but do not wish to take this step.

Indirectly, the legal interpretation that marauding dogs may be shot by owners who suffer damage brings up another problem. The laws regarding the use of firearms in Carmel Valley are neither uniform nor consistent with our stage of development. In recent weeks the OUTLOOK has had several complaints from homeowners regarding children shooting BB guns or, in some cases, more lethal weapons, in the vicinity of homes.

In unincorporated districts of the County, the laws regarding the use of firearms are still gauged to a rural pace--although, as we must all admit, certain sections of the Valley are no longer rural. That part of the Valley within the Tularecito Fire District has a different set of regulations for use of firearms than does the remainder of the Valley.

The OUTLOOK some weeks ago asked Captain Schuler of the Sheriff's Department to provide a definition of the complex laws which we may all understand. This interpretation has been slow in forthcoming, but we hope to have it for you soon.

Most of the problems facing the Valley are symptomatic, we think, of the gradual change from strictly rural to semi-suburban character.

COMBS' CANINE CORNERS

ON KEEPING DOGS FROM STRAYING

BY ADELAIDE COMBS

To say that dogs should not be allowed to roam at will, does not necessarily mean that a dog should be tied or chained to keep him at home. One is equally as bad for the dog as the other.

It is not surprising that dogs get in the habit of straying away from home if they are free to do so. The most direct answer is a fenced area so that the dog cannot stray. Even a large dog will get adequate exercise in a fenced yard or run. If you feel your dog must run, set aside a time to take him for a romp at the beach or in a field away from people and traffic.

If it is impractical to have a fenced area for your dog, a second choice is teaching him to remain in his own yard without the confining fence. You will have to devote a little extra time to your pet. Keep him indoors until he can be out under your supervision. Go out with him, watch him, and call him back the moment he starts to step out of bounds. If this is done each time he starts away, your patience will be rewarded, and he will soon learn to stay within his own yard instead of running off with a horde of canine companions.

Speak your piece on dogs!! Interested readers are invited to contribute questions and comments to Combs' Canine Corner, Via Contenta, Carmel Valley.

Always remember to praise your dog when he comes at your command. Entice him in with an occasional treat if necessary. Dogs are generally anxious to please their owners; they have only to be taught what is expected of them. By constant repetition, the dog is taught to perform a certain action until a habit is formed. Teach your dog good habits, and you will have a happier and healthier dog instead of an irresponsible ruffian.

Homeowners in the CV Fire District are urged to note the differences between the Business and Emergency numbers: OL 9-2221 (Emergency only) and OL 9-2021 (business calls).

BURNING PERMITS NEEDED NOW

It's illegal to burn outside your house, anywhere in Carmel Valley right now, without a fire permit.

While Spring green is visible from every window, former city dwellers and recently-arrived Californians may find this fact puzzling. Oldtimers know that dryness is a perennial problem in most parts of this state, and that matted dry humus under fresh grass can--and does, occasionally--create troublesome and damaging fires beneath the deceptive green covering.

Householders in the CV Village area (western boundary, Rancho Fiesta) can get permits at the CV Firehouse. The CV Fire District prohibits outside burning without a permit at all times of year.

Valleyites below Rancho Fiesta get their fire protection from the State Division of Forestry, and should get their fire permits there also. The Forestry Service requires permits from April 15 through December 1.

Homeowners below Rancho Fiesta are urged to keep the Forestry number--MA 4-3876--prominently displayed. Legally, the CV Fire Department cannot aid you unless requested to do so by the state service.

FIDELITY CLUB

Slide pictures of Mexico will follow the monthly potluck dinner of Fidelity Club in the Fellowship Hall of Community Chapel at 6:00 p.m. on Thursday, May 2. Dr. George Greer, a regular member of the club, will show the pictures of Mexico from an extensive collection taken during his travels.

Anyone over 50 years of age is welcome to attend. For information, call Mrs. Charles Hunt, secretary (OL 9-4404) or Mrs. Carl Naslund (OL 9-2387).

PISTOL WINNERS

Representing Carmel Valley this year in the Miss Monterey County Pageant will be Miss Joyce Ann Cloyd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Le-länd F. Cloyd of Paso Hondo. Born in Carmel on November 10, 1943, Joyce has been a Valleyite since 1951 and a graduate of Carmel High School since 1961--when she was chosen best student in the Business department.

Now a sophomore at Monterey Peninsula College, and still a Business major, Joyce plans to become a secretary but hopes to progress to a supervisory position. Her interests include bowling, swimming, dancing, reading, tennis, horseback, and hiking. She has blonde hair, blue eyes and a fair complexion, stands a tall 5 feet 8 inches--and those critical measurements are 38-25-37. Her talent entry in the pageant will be a dramatic reading.

Tickets for the Miss Monterey County Pageant are $1 for adults and 50¢ for students and children--available at the Thunderbird, Art Bennett's CV Market, and the CV General Store.

Pamela Gamble, Miss Carmel Valley of 1962 who went on to become, successively, Miss Monterey County and Miss California, will be one of the special guests at the coronation ceremonies which will end this year's Pageant. Among the judges will be CV's famous artist Al Parker.

PROBLEM:

PEOPLE AND GARBAGE

As a public service, the Carmel Valley Chamber of Commerce recently donated a number of large green litter cans to be placed at strategic spots throughout Carmel Valley Village.

As a public service, the Carmel Valley Disposal Service donates weekly pick-ups for these cans.

As a private convenience, a few residents who evidently do not have garbage service at their homes have been bringing their garbage from their homes under the cover of darkness and depositing it in the litter cans.

Anyone observing such an incident is requested to take license numbers or note names and to report the information in confidence to Mrs. Lory Swiess, executive secretary of the Chamber. The CVDS cannot continue this free service on behalf of the entire community, Mrs. Swiess points out, if a few people continue to exploit it in this selfish and unsanitary manner.

Tom Waters is in Sacramento this week attending a career conference of New York Life Insurance Company's field underwriters.

C OF C MEMBERSHIP

Business firms wishing to join the Carmel Valley Chamber of Commerce this year must do so by May 1 if they are to be included in the Valley Business Directory, according to Lory Swiess, executive secretary of the group.

The Chamber ended 1962 with 119 members. At present only "about 70" have paid dues. Mrs. Swiess said she felt the sharp drop in paid memberships was "just a matter of people getting the money into the mail."

Guild Lunch Next Wednesday

Luxury Cruise to the South Seas

"Luxury Cruise to the South Seas" is the theme, and diversissements such as elaborate tropical decor, a fashion show featuring cruise wear and the latest in ladies' wigs will be offered. A variety of salads will be served buffet-style; the occasion will be the annual Spring Salad Luncheon of the Chapel Guild, to be held next Wednesday, May 1, at 12:30 p. m.

Details of the decor are very hush-hush, but Cruise Director Elva Dickie predicts that the Fellowship Hall of Community Chapel will be "transformed" by her diligent committee-crew. Ellen Waters is co-ordinator and commentator for the fashion show by Berg's, and the wigs, which Ellen terms "wild!", are the very latest from Evelyn Ogawa's Golden Charm.

Models for the Fashion Show will be: Mary Jane Wolter, Dorothy Walsh, Lorraine Twohig, Gertrude Berry, Kathleen Wood, Barbara Blevens, Carol Reams, Honey Lundin, Mary Ann Judge, Mary Ricker, and Florence Johnson.

Captain Marjorie Carter advises that reservations should be made early with Pursers Mrs. Tom Mc Kiernon (OL 9-2833) or Mrs. Maus Purple (OL 9-2882). Mrs. Kay Carter is Galley Steward and Marge Capon is Dining Room Steward.

Tickets for the Guild's yearly fund-raising event are $2.50.

GREAT EXPECTATIONS!

1963 HIGH SCHOOL ANNUAL

BY JIM MILLER

This year's Chameleon, Carmel High School's literary annual, promises to be one of the most colorful (and best publicized) issues yet. A general staff of more than twenty is assisting in the initial screening of manuscripts, in publicity and art work. Mr. John Rylander is faculty adviser.

If the schemes presently simmering in the minds of the editorial staff come to fruition many new paths will be opened for the Chameleon; and indeed, for the publications of the other schools on the Peninsula, as well.

The staff hopes to sell the Chameleon in other high schools: Monterey, Pacific Grove, Santa Catalina, etc., and at MPC. In return, we would sell MPC's e. g. and the other schools' annuals at our new student bookstore.

But this is not all. We plan to sell a few copies by consignment at the Thunderbird Shop in the Valley, and at The Bookworm and Friar Tuck's in Carmel. This is the first time, to our knowledge, that such an arrangement has been attempted in this area.

The general editor is the present writer; the art editor, Carlin Arriola, son of the famous cartoonist; the business editor, Pat Lewis; and editorial assistant, Val Whitworth.

The Chameleon itself will have a somewhat different format this year. It will be larger in size and in number of pages. Its shape will be elongated. The cover, according to Carlin, will have an "aztec" chameleon sprawled in red across its surface lengthwise.

Although the Chameleon wins silver cups at MPC's Journalism Day nearly every year, we feel that the publication has been slipping in some ways. In the 1956-7 issue there were 22 pages of poetry and 34 pages of prose. Last year there were 25 pages of poetry and only 9 of prose. Though the quality of material has noticeably improved since 1956-7, this year will see a more pronounced effort to restore the prose-poetry balance.

Sometime in May the Chameleon staff will be sponsoring a poetry reading at Friar Tuck's in Carmel. Carmel High students will read their own poetry, among them Gay Beauchamp, Carlin Arriola, Valerie Whitworth, Mike Patterson and Jim Miller. Earlier this year Monterey High conducted a similar poetry reading at Friar Tuck's.

This year promises to be a milestone in the history of the Chameleon. It is to be hoped that a vital stimulus will be given to creative writing at Carmel High School.

JEAN KELLOGG ONE-MAN SHOW ENDS SUNDAY

Jean Kellogg, well known American artist and the wife of the Carmel Valley cartoonist James Dickie, is exhibiting her paintings, drawings and etchings starting through this Sunday.

Her exhibition is displayed in the private home of her friends and neighbors Mr. and Mrs. John Truesdell of Carmel Highlands.

The Truesdells' home on Highway 1 is a short distance beyond the entrance to Point Lobos Reserve, on the same side of the road, just before the Chevron gas station which is visible across the road. The name Truesdell is well marked at the entrance to the property.

JAMES REUNION

Mrs. D. L. James of Carmel Highlands had all members of her family here for Easter. In her rock house above the ocean were Mr. and Mrs. Dan James of Los Angeles; their younger daughter, Kathy; also their son-in-law and older daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Willard of Davis, and their two small daughters.

PLANS TO HONOR THOMAS STARR KING

The men's fellowship of Carmel's Church in the Round has undertaken a program to honor the Reverend Thomas Starr King in the commemorative stamp series. Persons who want to help this program are asked to write to Box 939, Carmel.

Reverend King, a Unitarian minister in San Francisco, worked to abolish slavery and was instrumental in swinging California's support to the North during the Civil War.

The California State Legislature chose him and Father Junipero Serra to represent this state and have their statues placed in the rotunda of the Capitol in Washington, D. C.

the Outlook on Carmel Plaxton to Recodify Carmel City Laws

BY MARJORY LLOYD

"I distrust every requirement in the municipal code until it is double checked," Arthur M. Plaxton, Carmel's new city clerk, declared this week and added that his office will begin complete recodifying of Carmel's city laws.

Plaxton maintains that he and the city council fell into a "booby trap" last week; as a result, he made the above statement.

On April 17 the council held public hearings on two new ordinances. The first was a new law requiring interaccessibility between the rooms of single family dwellings. The second was a measure to ensure landscaping of all parking lots in the business district. Following the hearings, the council moved that the two ordinances had been given first reading. At a following meeting they planned to give second reading to the two ordinances, which, if then approved would become city laws.

But the council had been "booby-trapped", according to Plaxton. He followed instructions in the municipal code and published notice of the two public hearings on April 11, well within the five-day limit set in the municipal code.

However, in a 1959 supplement, the State of California decreed that all planning and zoning laws must have a ten-day lapse between publication of notices of public hearings and the actual hearings. This change was not made in the Carmel municipal code, Plaxton asserts. Therefore, he and the council fell into a "booby trap" and the hearings and first readings of the two new laws are, presumably, not valid.

This situation gave rise to Plaxton's unrest with other requirements in the code. "I want to find out what else has been missed," he emphasizes.

In an effort to eliminate any possibility of other "booby traps", as he terms them, Plaxton will now double check all code requirements and, in effect, recodify the laws of the city and bring them up to date in all respects.

Plaxton was appointed city clerk by the council on April 1.

ANNUAL ART AUCTION

Area Master Plan Seeks to Guard Valley's Rural Beauty

"The Carmel Valley is a distinctive area of great beauty, hemmed in by steep and rugged mountains on the south and the high ridge of the Peninsula on the north. (It) winds in twisting fashion to provide an intimate sense of shelter and drama." So begins the discussion of the Valley and its future in the Monterey Peninsula Area Planning Commission's area plan entitled, "The Peninsula Tomorrow."

A few sentences later it strikes the heart of the problem: "The CV Master Plan projects a population (in 1985) of 20,000 in the Valley at a density of one acre per dwelling unit. The question becomes: how can we accommodate five times as many people and still maintain a rural character?"

The 14-man Peninsula Planning Commission draws its members from all incorporated and unincorporated areas of the peninsula, and Dr. Edward Marcucci, who also serves on the County Planning Commission, represents the Valley. Professional consultants are the firms of Hall and Goodhue, and Eisner-Stewart and Associates. Their area master plan proposes as its theme "...treating the whole Peninsula as a park, a fabric of green against a sea of blue, and onto that fabric (placing) our urban developments like jewels on display."

Carmel Valley's key features which give it a distinctive individuality are summarized as "the enclosing hills, the river, the Carmel Valley road and what we see from it, scenic lookouts along the road, the sense of remoteness from the city, the weather, the views of farms, orchards, and grazing horses." An attempt to preserve these features must take into account certain basic truths.

It must be realized first that the Valley is undergoing fundamental change and that there is no public or private resource to buy up the presently agricultural land or subsidize the farmer. The 16,000 new residents making up 5,000 new families in the Valley by 1985 will be the same, whether their homesites are distributed at random all over the Valley or are grouped according to a predetermined pattern whose purpose is to save the key features from dilution or complete eradication.

To this end, the Area Plan portrays the rural-residential development of the Valley as set back from the road and enclosing three commercial and community centers: Carmel Valley Village, Farm Center, and Valley Hills.

The three centers of population will each function as a local shopping center to serve the daily needs of its area, and no commercial zoning is recommended outside these areas. The Carmel Rancho Shopping Center at the mouth of the Valley is to be one of the two major facilities on the Peninsula.

Schools

Schools, too, will be grouped around these same centers, which will then serve as something of community gathering-places, as Carmelo and Tularcitos are used now. The plan foresees two more elementary schools in the neighborhood of the Village, a junior high at Farm Center, and two additional elementary schools, one at Valley Hills and one adjacent to the present junior high at the mouth of the Valley. This junior high is to be enlarged to provide senior high school accommodations for the entire Carmel Unified School District, which will include by then another elementary school and junior high in Carmel Highlands.

If the Valley has a large share of the proposed school construction, this is for a very good reason: namely, that the predicted growth rate here is just about double that of the rest of the Peninsula. In the area as a whole, population is expected to increase from 105,000 to 215,000 by 1985, while the Valley explodes from 4,000 persons to 20,000. The same rate of increase is predicted for the traffic rate on CV Road--while other major facilities will augment their load by a factor of 2.1 or 2.3, the burden of Carmel Valley Road will be 5.0 times as heavy.

Open Areas

Three large open areas separate these centers: one at the entrance to the Valley, just east of the junior high school to provide a sharp break from urban Carmel, a second at Schulte Road where the River runs close to the Valley road, the third a regional park along the river from Farm Center to approximately Los Laureles

CRITICISM INVITED

The Monterey Peninsula Area Plan, in tentative form, is now before the public. Modifications will no doubt be made before the plan is put in final form--hopefully, by the end of this summer.

Area Planners Gordon Hall and Don Goodhue invite criticism at this time. "This is the period for intense and comprehensive public review and discussion," say they.

To seek such criticism Gordon Hall will give a public presentation and lead discussion on the area plan on Tuesday, April 30, at 8 p. m. in the Monterey Peninsula College Library. He is inviting all Peninsula organizations to send representatives to this meeting. The plan is the culmination of study and work by the area planning commission and its consultants over a seven-year period.

Hall and Goodhue told the OUTLOOK early this week that they are eager for an opportunity to hold public meetings in the Valley regarding those portions of the plan which deal with our vale; in this way they hope to get the reactions of residents first-hand.

The OUTLOOK is very proud to have such a scholarly and talented writer as Mrs. Dorothy Reed, who prepared the condensation on this page, of that part of the text which deals with the Carmel Valley.

Grade.

The dedication of this beautiful area where groves of sycamores stand practically in the shadow of the cliffs is seen as the backbone of an effort to conserve the whole length of the river as a greenbelt. The report contains a multi-faceted plan for securing scenic easements to implement this greenbelt, as well as a similar space along the Valley road.

Scenic Corridor

"The preservation of the scenic and rural character of this road is the most important single factor in maintaining the quality of the Carmel Valley," according to the plan. It proposes a broad corridor, varying in width according to the terrain and with concessions to development already in existence, but with a goal of 500 feet on each side of the road, from which further building would be excluded. Through this corridor two one-way two-lane roads would wander, screened from each other by natural features when possible, with connections at suitable intervals.

New Roads

Proposed new roads that would affect the traffic patterns in the Valley are a parkway through Canada Canyon (Canada de la Segundo) connecting with the Monterey-Salinas highway, and a looping scenic drive south of the River, intended to serve the residential areas around it. Another scenic road along the ridge north of the Valley is considered too far away to draw off any traffic generating in the Valley but would hopefully divert cars headed for Greenfield.

The freeway through Hatton Canyon, a fait accompli as far as legislation is concerned, was concerned outside the scope of the report, but the suggestion is made that it could be constructed with less damage to the area if it terminated at the Valley road.

Easements

The pattern of greenbelts along the road, along the river, and between the three residential areas is calculated to require about 1,000 acres of scenic easements to preserve the open space. The planners suggest that this represents a market value in subdivision land of at least $5,000,000.

Their main key to obtaining the easements lies in the Valley's already established one-acre zoning. After critical areas are designated as such by the appropriate body, it is suggested that developers be offered a higher density in exchange for preservation of those areas important to the community--that is, that they be allowed to build two dwelling units for each acre put under scenic easement.

District?

As an implementing body for the entire plan, the Area Planning Commission suggests the establishment of a "Conservation District" to acquire and maintain the regional parks and parkways, accept scenic easements and develop rights or ownership of open space acquired through subdivisions. It would be "the public voice and the public arm" in matters of conservation, the central theme of this Plan and of so much public concern."

Area Planners' Suggestions For 4-Lane Carmel Valley Rd.

In order to have something visible as a departure-point for discussion in the hands of everyone who attended the road meeting at Carmelo School Wednesday evening, Planners Hall & Goodhue prepared this map last week.

The map at the right left many questions in our minds after a first look, and we felt that others would ask these too. Gordon Hall answered the questions as well as he could, hurriedly, by telephone.

The map at the right is, because of the small scale, a crude representation. The road it suggests was designed to solve traffic problems while adding to rather than subtracting from the total beauty of a drive through the Valley. The existing road affords many fine views to the eastbound driver, fewer to the westbound. New lanes have been added in several places to afford vistas while westbound. Where the white lines are above (north) of the existing road, they are westbound; where below (south) they are eastbound.

Wherever possible, in relation to present property development, the pair of 2 lane roads has been separated widely in order that a swath of natural scenery might be left between.

About the Map:

Questions & Answers

(The following questions were posed by the OUTLOOK after a first look at the map to the right and answered by Gordon Hall of Hall & Goodhue.)

QUESTION: What houses will have to be removed?

ANSWER: No building will have to be removed that is not already substandard for the area --by which we mean very old or very small or both. There are only 4 of these. The only sizeable one we know is due to be removed anyway because of already existing plans for that site. A second is both very small and very old; the third is an adobe building of evidently not more than one room. The fourth is a fruitstand. All of them except the 1-room adobe could be easily re-located if the owners felt it worth the trouble. We did not feel that any of these buildings should be allowed to prevent your having the most beautiful road possible.

(Before drawing the map, Hall and Goodhue spent one morning exploring the less-than-two-mile strip; they were interested only in selecting the best possible location for a road in relation to view and preservation of natural scenery. They did not inquire into the ownership.)

QUESTION: The lines look as if they would go through many houses. How come?

ANSWER: That is only because of the small scale of the map. The lines drawn actually represent much more than the 60 feet that would be necessary.

QUESTION: Just from looking at the photograph and the lines suggesting a road, it is pretty hard to understand your reasons. Can you explain?

ANSWER: The reasons we had can only be understood from actually being on the site, as we were--not from a map. We chose in several cases to put the westbound lanes on a rise from which an especially fine view would be afforded; in other cases we chose a certain route in order to spare a fine clump of trees--and so on.

QUESTION: At the last Road Meeting, there was general agreement that all of Carmel Valley Rd. should be considered as a unit. You have planned less than two miles here. Why?

ANSWER: We prepared only a parallel map for the one released by the County three weeks ago, for the same part of the road. We too believe strongly that the entire length of the road --to the Village--should be considered as a unit.

THE UNCATCHABLES AT TASSAJARA SPRINGS or Fishing for Sportsmen Only *

None of the trout in Tassajara Creek have been caught before. They all arrive here under their own power and have not a great deal in common with "catchables". Rumor even has it that they eat "catchables" and wash them down with hot mineral water. This accounts for their great size and spirit.

Conditions this year look better than at any time since '83. Reservations are now being taken for The Tassajara Big Fish Contest on May 4th. If you don't really fancy waiting on the end of a line for a handout--come up and have a tussle with one of the "uncatchables".

MOTHERS DAY PANCAKE BREAKFAST COMING UP!

by Pat McKiernon

Friday the 19th, the Junior Fellowship met for a business meeting to discuss the coming-up Mother's Day Pancake Breakfast. There will be posters up all around the Valley and in Carmel giving information.

The money collected from the breakfast will go to paying the way for the members to go to camp. This camp is the Mount Hermon Christian Camp. The church is paying half fare for the ones going so there will be $13.25 per person left to be paid.

All members of the group will be selling tickets, so get your tickets right away! The prices are $1 for adults and 50¢ for children under 12. Take the mothers out for a treat!

Also at the meeting was Rev. Dick Dosker who gave a talk and showed slides about the camp.

In the offing, a beach party is being planned. If you members who weren't there during the meeting wish to get in on this, come to the next meeting next Friday, April 26.

CO-OP NURSERY SCHOOL

"Roots of Happiness," a 25-minute film depicting "what really makes a happy family" will be shown at the Father's Night of the Parents Co-operative Nursery School next Tuesday, April 30. These for-fathers-only gatherings are held monthly in the Education Building of the CV Community Chapel. The school is part of the Adult Education program of the Carmel Unified School District. Pre-school youngsters attend 5 mornings per week, with their mothers taking turns in assisting Director Mrs. Don Johnson.

GARDEN ASSOCIATION ANNUAL FLOWER SHOW MAY 4-5

Members and guests of the Carmel Valley Garden Association in attendance at the Friday program of flower arrangements were offered an excellent preview of this year's flower show. Enough impromptu arrangements to fill one cafeteria table at Tularcitos were assembled by Kathleen Wood who by visiting gardens in the immediate area was able to gather an assortment of blossoms large enough to dispel fears that our everlasting rains would preclude flowers at show time.

Joining co-chairmen Mr. and Mrs. Jay Hershel Porter of the Hospitality Committee in inviting everyone to view the exhibits May 4 and 5 at Tularcitos School are their committee members: Mr. and Mrs. Ray Porcelius, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bartley, Mr. Sterling Mummert, Mrs. Clyde Hitchcock, Mrs. Kay Lewis, Mrs. Gertrude Berry, and Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Makinster.

SILVER SLIPPERS

The Silver Slippers Square Dancers met last Monday evening to present badges to the following new members: Verda Arden, Eric Benton, Diane Grice, Sara and Bill Farr, John Ogburn, Alex Olmsted, Sally Rial, and Tamara Van Laanen. Two squares of the Valley dance group attended the Grove Bouncers Hoe Down last week at Highlands school with a caller from San Jose, Bill Peters.

CVDO

Tom Waters represented the CV Defense and Disaster Organization at a county-wide meeting in the Supervisors Chambers at Salinas to hear reports from 10 County C. D. chiefs, plus the Red Cross, U. S. Forestry, Conelrad, and Civil Air Patrol.

Congressman Burt Talcott was replaced as Chairman by Bruce McClain, and Sheriff Jack Davenport appointed vice-chairman.

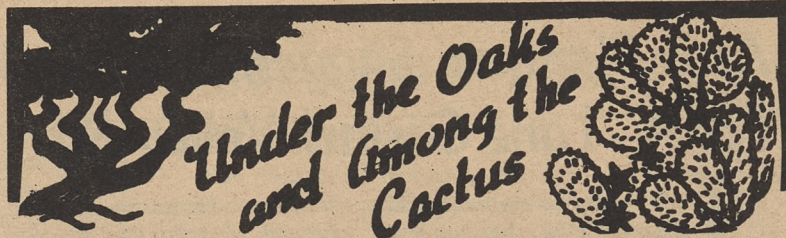

The near-crisis of recent flooding of the Carmel River was discussed, and the general feeling was that liaison between all support units went very well at that time. The next county-wide meeting is set for July 3.

KIMBERLY BASH ARRIVES

Miss Kimberly Bash will be two weeks old this Friday. She is the welcome new daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dick Bash of Hitchcock Canyon. At birth she weighed 7 lbs. 9 oz. Her elder sister, Miss Gail Bash, celebrated her first birthday just 3 days after the arrival of the newest member of the family.

Kimberly's great-grandmother, Mrs. Rozalund Hoag of Carmel Valley, has been helping to care for mother and baby, both of whom are doing very well.

Kimberly's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Borchers, and another great-grandmother, Mrs. Charles Borchers, are also Valley residents. Her great-grandparents on her father's side reside in Pennsylvania.

BY MILDRED HATTAN

A "Gold" nugget discovered sometime ago by Clyde Hitchcock at the Adobe Oaks was returned in a modernistic gold ring setting as a gag gift from Joe Ricupero. "Giuseppe" and his wife were among the guests invited by Beth to honor Clyde on his birthday at a surprise party on the 16th. Other friends enjoying the festivities were Dorothy Caton, Mildred Eastman, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Wilnot, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Whiteman (Jean and Bill were celebrating their anniversary), Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Dickie, and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Anthony. Frances and Paul left Wednesday morning for a six week rock and flower picture taking tour of such beauty spots as Palm Springs, Grand Canyon, and Zion National Park.

New officers of the Auxiliary of the Carmel Valley Volunteer Fire Department were formally installed at a dinner held Thursday evening at Will's Fargo. Retiring president Mrs. Don Weber, was presented with a gift of appreciation for her year's contribution to the organization. Other outgoing officers Mrs. George Palmer and Mrs. Charles Gansel, were presented with corsages. The new officers receiving their oaths from Mrs. William "Bud" Hall were: Mrs. John Woods, president; Mrs. Mark Hattan, vice president; Mrs. Dick McKenzie, recording secretary; Mrs. Reginald Bennett, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Don Cummings, treasurer. A surprise presentation of flowers and a life State Membership was made to Mrs. Hugh (Margaret) Erwin for her many years of service. Plans were completed for the Auxiliary to man the Canteen and make a telephone campaign for the May 9th Blood Bank.

Janet and "Pep" Pepple have sold their home on Valle Vista Drive and will be moving in three weeks to Salinas. The new owners are Mr. and Mrs. George Howard, formerly of Montana and more recently of Monterey. When Janet entertained last week with a jewelry party she included Mrs. Howard's name on the guest list so that she would have an opportunity to meet some of her soon-to-be neighbors. Extending a Valley welcome to Vina were Ruth Angell, Margaret Mann, Muriel Loesel, Bessie Waylett, Freida Harbin, Melba Gates, Lois Grigsby, Katherine Bell, Angie Panelli, Lorrie Young, Jean Friddle, and Jean Ann Friddle. Mary Milligan, who has been a guest at the Pepples' has returned to her home in Los Angeles.

Renewing acquaintances while staying at the Adobe Oaks are former residents of Via Contenta, Mr. and Mrs. N. J. Goetz who now make their home in Bismark, Missouri. . . . Also enjoying the hospitality at the Adobe Oaks are Seattle guests of Dr. and Mrs. J. J. Short on Calle de Quien Sabe. Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Hennermann (Mrs. Short's sister and brother-in-law) were accompanied to the Valley by Mrs. Belle Hennermann.

Guests of Will Fay also made their headquarters at Adobe Oaks. Mr. and Mrs. Paul Crawford of San Francisco who were married six years ago in Carmel returned to the area for a pre-anniversary celebration. . . . A recent guest who commuted to the Carmel Point home of his sister, Jean Arthur of screen and stage fame, has been Donald Green.

The population at the Parrott Ranch on the Cachagua increased April 7 with the arrival at the Community Hospital of Johanna Chapman Fay. Johanna's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Fay.

FROM THE BENCH

BY CARL BERNHARD, MPC

When the 13th Annual Concours d'Elegance was held in Pebble Beach, the "13" jinx brought wet grounds and heavy clouds. This excess moisture made it necessary to move the whole affair from the Del Monte Lodge on the golf course, which would have been ruined in the wet. Substitute area was once the starting grid when road races were run in the Forest. Now they are of course run at Laguna Seca, a much safer track as one lap around the old one shows--its narrow roads lined very closely with big pines waiting to get in the way of the unfortunate.

A big crowd examined the restored masterpieces, comparing them to their own battered buggies. As usual, the big Rolls-Royces and Bentleys awed the peasants with their size and stately elegance. There were 16 classes with winner and placers in each. In addition there were informal Aston Martin and Ferrari exhibits.

Where can I get $14,000 quick? These last two classes created inferiority complexes, but didn't have points winners.

Since there were three overall prizes for best in show, in addition to the 16 class winners, the entire list is impossible to print here.

Two local owners won their classes. Alton Walker of Pebble Beach won in his 1912 Rolls-Royce Silver Ghost. (NOT "Rolls", please). Mrs. Kevin Walsh of Carmel Valley took her class in a 1956 Aston Martin DB3S Roadster. This was about the fastest car (150 plus in its day) entered in the show.

I don't know if it's a fad or not, but there seemed to be a lot of people with tiny, scared dogs that my cat could swallow whole. It is kind of pathetic.

Although the machinery was perfect, the organization wasn't. It took far too long to present the class awards and then the deliberation on the overall winners seemed to take forever. In fact, most people left by then. Those that remained to see the big awards were treated to a view of the judges' oft-ample posteriors (all 18) as they lined up, backs to the crowd, blocking the view of the cars and happy owners. But this couldn't spoil the fun that we all had. And the Community Hospital, to which the proceeds went, also profited greatly.

Incidentally, that Porsche of Wester's in the OUTLOOK was a Carrera, NOT his Sebring Porsche-Abarth entry.

VISITORS at a lecture given by CV artist Al Parker, center, were some of the contestants in the upcoming Miss Monterey County Contest. The lecture was part of a series of seminars led by Peninsula artist and cartoonists under the auspices of the Monterey school system. The girls are Diane Haver, Penny Trowbridge, and Nancy Marvin. At left is Gus Arriola of Carmel whose Gordo strip is nationally syndicated. He conducted a similar seminar on cartooning the week before. Regular students at the seminars are selected because of demonstrated talent in art.

Last week, Jesse W. Corsaut of Carmel discussed portrait painting for the young seminar students, both boys and girls. Also included in the artists who will conduct seminars are Eldon Dedini and John Boit Morse.

WHITE OAKS FIRST SUMMER CONCERT MAY 3

A series of five concerts will be among the offerings of CV's White Oaks Theatre this summer, in addition to the summer stock productions which the community has come to expect.

First concert--and the first offering of the White Oaks group for the 1963 season--will be held Friday, May 3, at 8:30 p. m. in the familiar barn-theatre behind the Postoffice in CV Village. Pianist Chris Nance, who will be remembered locally as musical director for all White Oaks productions last year, will play. Nance is currently studying for his Master's Degree in Concert Music at the University of Southern California, where he regularly conducts a 30-piece chamber music ensemble.

Among the piano selections which Nance will play next week are Bach's Prelude and Fugue in A Minor, Stravinsky's Sonata for the Piano, and Poems of the Sea, by Ernest Bloch.

The young musician has also studied in France, where he assisted in the choral and instrumental preparation of Kurt Weill's "Down in the Valley" at the Paris-American High School.

Tickets may be reserved by calling the White Oaks Box Office, OL 9-2258; these are $1.50.

55TH ANNIVERSARY

Planning Commission

Re-zoning to C-1 would be necessary, Franco explains, plus a use permit. Cowan is applying for a use permit at the same time.

2:20 p. m. Carmel Valley Manor (also in a continued hearing) applies for a use permit to add 10 acres (located across Carmel Valley Rd. from the present construction site) to the facilities of the retirement home for recreational use.

3:10 p. m. Truman Scarlett applies for three panhandle lots on a 60 foot right-of-way, a division of a 5 1/2 acre parcel located on Scarlett Rd.

Other items:

T. M. Chapman seeks for 4 panhandle lots, representing a division of a 71 acre parcel at the end of El Cammito Rd. The four lots would be 18, 11, 31, and 11 acres, respectively, in size.

Mrs. Raymond Smith is applying for re-zoning of lot 6 in Rancho Aguajito (from RIB4 to RIB6 to permit development of unit #2 of Rancho Mar Monte.

Presumably, times for hearing will be set--for a future date--for the two items above.

Mrs. Marion Wilson asks design approval for a building addition to Joanne's Fine Sports-wear shop. Proprietress Joanne Sears says that an office plus a workroom for the sewing of dresses of her original design will be added at the rear of the present shop. That portion of the shop now used for an office will be converted to increase merchandise display.

At 11:20 a. m. Valley Greens Subdivision will be heard regarding a change of name; to "Carmel Valley Country Club."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor:

I agree with you, Paul Cooper, and almost all Valley residents that it is horrible to contemplate the State using Our Valley as a through-way to Greenfield. I also declare beforehand: IF THE COUNTY BUILDS A 4-LANE HIGHWAY TO CARMEL VALLEY THE STATE WILL MAKE THE DECISION TO BUILD THE THROUGHWAY ON THE VALLEY FLOOR.

This will happen, alternate routes and sky-lines notwithstanding, and then if one is driving from Los Angeles to Carmel why go all the way through Salinas and Monterey when one can go from Greenfield through Carmel Valley on a 4-lane highway quicker and more safely without running into fog until one gets to Carmel.

Sincerely,
Robert G. Read
